kidsdata.org
We've got your numbers.

Things to Know About Kidsdata.org

• The site promotes the well being of children by making pertinent, trustworthy information easily accessible to parents, policymakers, service providers, grantseekers, media, educators, and others who influence the lives of children.

• Kidsdata.org is a comprehensive website that tracks hundreds of indicators on the health and well being of children in California from numerous recognized data sources.

• Data on the site are continually updated, and can be customized by year, locale, ethnicity, age, and more. The results can be viewed as tables, maps, or bar, trend, and pie graphs then downloaded into Word, PowerPoint, or Excel.

• The site's charts, graphs, and maps can help tell your story in grant proposals, research reports, presentations, public education, advocacy campaigns, and other work on behalf of children.

• The site provides descriptions detailing why each issue is important and what the data mean, as well as policy implications and links to key websites and research.
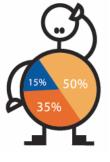

• Kidsdata.org raises the visibility of key issues affecting California's children, and provides data that help communities make decisions on issues that affect children by enabling policymakers to set priorities, track progress, and identify new areas of concern.

A Sample of Data on Kidsdata.org

Kidsdata.org offers access to data for cities, school districts, legislative districts, and counties statewide, so you can assess how children in your area are faring compared to neighboring communities and to similar locales across California.
A sample of our topics:

- Alcohol, Tobacco & Other Drug Use
- Asthma
- Bullying & Harassment
- Child Abuse & Neglect
- Child Care
- Demographics
- Emotional Health
- Environmental Health
- Foster Care
- Gang Involvement
- Health Care
- Immigrants
- Infant Mortality
- Poverty
- Reading & Math Proficiency
- School Safety
- Special Health Care Needs
- Teen Sexual Health
- Weight & Fitness

For additional information, contact us at kidsdata@lpfch.org. Kidsdata.org is a project of the Lucile Packard Foundation for Children's Health.

Visit kidsdata.org

Lucile Packard Foundation for Children's Health