parents say

"I want my daughter to learn about this important part of life from me. I want her to know she can always come to me."

Leticia, mother of 12-year-old Angela

Keep your children safe + healthy. . . talk with them about sex!

As a parent, you want to help your kids stay safe and healthy. All kids learn about sex somehow, but it makes a difference when they hear it from you. Talk with your kids openly, honestly and often to help them learn how to prevent pregnancy and the diseases people can get from having unprotected sex.

Here are some basics to get you started:

Start now. The earlier you start, the easier it is. You don't have to be an expert. Just relax and learn with your child.

Build your child's trust in you. When you listen to your children and answer their questions honestly, you show them that you can be trusted.

Talk about what's important to you. When you and your children talk about your family's values, your children will think about those values when they make choices in life.

Help your children feel good about themselves. Let them know you love them no matter what. Young people who feel loved and supported by their parents make better choices for themselves.

Know the facts. Both boys and girls need to know the basics. We can help our kids learn what to expect as they are growing up.

How do you provide sexual and reproductive health services?

- Provide free condoms?
- Provide visits for birth control?
- Provide STD screening?
- Enroll teens in Family PACT?
- Insert IUDs / LARCs?
- Offer HPV vaccinations?
- Dispense medications at your campus health center?

Onsite Dispensing

Why dispense in the clinic?

The Facts!

- 25% of all new prescriptions go unfilled whether or not the patient has insurance.
- 31% of prescriptions for a short course of therapy go unfilled.
- Up to 50% (estimated) of prescriptions for underserved populations go unfilled.

(Kaiser Foundation Health Report 2010)

Why prescriptions go unfilled...

www.shutterstock.com · 68146432

- Patients may not be able to afford the prescription.
- Patients might be embarrassed by their condition.
- Patients may have cultural and/or language barriers.
- Patients might not understand the need for the prescription.
- Patients may not have easy access to a pharmacy.

Why dispense in the clinic?

- Medication given at the time of the appointment has a greater impact on patient compliance.
 - Patient progress can be monitored.
- Patients get the medication from a practitioner they have come to trust.
- Patients can be assured of confidentiality and security in a safe environment.

What is needed in order to set up clinic dispensing?

- Obtain a dispensing permit from the CA Board of Pharmacy.
 - Free for non-profit organizations.
- Hire a consulting pharmacist to do quarterly compliance checks.
 - You do not have to have a pharmacist on-site to dispense medications.
